Chronic Inflammatory Diseases
- An Emerging Epidemic

Inflammation has been considered as one of the major causative factors responsible for the development of many lifestyle diseases and non-communicable diseases. Global research has brought greater focus on different aspects of inflammation. In the last two decades, research has answered a few enigmas and opened up more questions for further evaluation. Keeping promotion of research in the field of inflammation as the key objective, the Society of Inflammation Research (SIR) was inaugurated in the year 2017 and we are successfully stepping in to the second year.

This year the conference focuses on the chronic inflammatory diseases like autoimmune, metabolic and other related diseases. A recent report published by the ICMR and Public health foundation of India has projected a rise of more than 20% in disability loss due to non-communicable diseases. (Burden of disability-adjusted life years increased from 30.5 in 1996 to 55.4 in 2016). Understanding of this field of inflammation has created adequate knowledge and evidence to suggest that intervention in this area will help in improving the disease outcome.

In India, many prestigious institutes are conducting research in this area. Currently, we need a platform to meet and exchange the ideas and to connect to achieve better outcome. This platform of SIRCON will serve as a golden opportunity to listen to brilliant minds and to interact. The forthcoming conference focuses on the theme ‘Chronic Inflammatory Diseases – An Emerging Epidemic’. A blend of various basic and applied aspects of the inflammation research will be discussed.

We welcome all to this important conference.
